

The Atoms Family

By Elissa Miller

There is a spooky Halloween family
You know them I believe
For they are everywhere you go, everything you see
And even make up every part of both you and me

They are inside your shoes and all around your socks
They bond together in every strand of your hair
They make up your pants, shirts, and even your underwear!
They are the second and minute hands on the clock

But there is no need to fear
Because this family is very nice
To everyone this should be crystal clear
They have no vice

So can you guess what family I am talking about
You've been introduced in science class I am sure
If you can not guess there is no need to pout
In your science text book you can refer.....

And see it's the one and only Atoms Family!
The tiny particles that make every piece of matter
Dalton wrote about then in his infamous theory
They are every part of life!
